

Managing for Results

Duration: 1 Day

Maximum 12 delegates

About the course

This course is designed to enable delegates to question and assess their own strengths and weaknesses over a wide range of personal and management skills

Who should attend?

Those responsible for management of small teams and work-loads

Course content

- self-assessment of personal and management styles
- identifying personal strengths and development areas
- how to balance demands on time and resource in an effective manner Identifying required knowledge, skills and personal attributes
- establishing clear objectives for improving personal and team performance
- setting goals and feedback